PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Members,

It's that time again to be looking at nominations for the Offices of the NCNA for the year 2013. The Year is nearing an end. It has been a good year; a great team has been working together. There will be a lot of new ideas that will be put into effect shortly.

We will be looking for Nominations to be made for all the Awards that are offered by the NCNA. We know that there are a lot of hard workers in the local Clubs that deserve recognition. If you will write a letter and nominate them, they deserve it. Send it to the NCNA Headquarters address and it will be passed on to the right Committee. We would like to see more involvement, because this is your organization and recommendations should come from you as a Member.

We are looking for recommendations for seminar that the Membership would like to see held at the Annual Show in October. What subjects would you like to have more information on and we will try to have them set for you and bring a speaker or teacher in to assist. In the past we have brought in further education on ancient coins, Lincoln cents, counterfeit detection, and paper money. If you would like some of these brought back let us know.

We are seeing a good year so as support for the local Clubs which is a great thing to see. Some of the shows are showing signs of some collector coins moving, but they are still slower than we would like to see. I guess the economy is still having an effect on collecting and hopefully this will improve in the near future. We encourage Members to work with the young collectors and help them work with their knowledge to move them into the future. The best place is to work with them in these local Clubs where there is so much knowledge and experience. If we can help please let us know.

Start now to make arrangements to attend the Hickory show in October 5-7. Keep enjoying the hobby and helping others. It is a great hobby. See you soon at one of the Shows

Bill Brewer

EDITOR' NOTES

By the time that you receive this Journal the year will be half over with. I do not know about you but the time just seem to go by fast. I guess since the world is on a fast past and everyone seems to be in a hurry which makes the time go faster with our lives.

If you have a chance to slow down a little, find a local coin show on a weekend and just drop by and wander through the show. You will be surprise to see all of the coins that has history to them. Stop and talk with the dealers and you will be surprise with all of the wealth of knowledge that they have about numismatics.

We have an interesting article provide by Rodney Bobak on "Human Nature Repeats Itself - History Does Not". Part 2 of this article will be in the September issue of the Journal. This was interesting reading and hope that you enjoy it as much as I did.

Inheriting In Reverse article was provided by Bill Snyder. This has a good twist to this short article.

There are interesting TID BIT of information throughout this Journal and hope that this will provide some good information for everyone.

Bill is calling for Nominations of Officers and Nominations of Awards. Read the requirements and if you know of anyone that you would like to Nominate in any of these positions or award, you have until the 1st of August to submit the necessary paperwork requirements.

As always be aware of your surrounding when attending or setting up at shows and be safe!!!

"CALL FOR AWARDS NOMINATIONS"

The North Carolina Numismatic Association would like to thank the local Clubs for continuing your Membership. The Local Clubs and the local Memberships are what make this organization and builds and strengthens it. Through your support we are able to bring benefits and education to the Clubs.

We know that each of the Clubs have individuals that perform duties above and beyond the things that necessary to make a strong Club. These individuals do not always receive recognition for their efforts. You as a Club can help make this happen.

The NCNA Awards are designed to offer some recognition for their accomplishments:

JOHN J. PITTMAN AWARD

The North Carolina Numismatic Association presents the John J. Pittman Award to that individual who has made significant contribution to numismatics in North Carolina in the previous year or years. These contributions can take many forms: Any one or a combination of these makes a person eligible for nomination. Must be a member of the North Carolina Numismatic Association.

EARLY COUNTERFEITING

Did you know that both Greek and Roman coins were counterfeited in the ancient world? The large size of the Imperial Roman sestertius coin was a favorite target which made casting easy. The sestertius was a big bronze coin about the size of the half dollar and about twice as thick. The sestertius weighed about 25 grams or nearly one ounce. The counterfeiter would make a cast in lead or some other material and then by pouring in soft bronze and allowing it to harden. Then the counterfeiter was in business. All of the material that he needed such as bronze, to which he could admix copper, brass and zinc without much fear of detection, was readily available from the Roman scrap heaps. The only item needed was a furnace to melt the different metals and he was in business. As the average money handler in that time was probably not too bright which made counterfeiting very successful.

The emperors did not look too kindly to this and according to Roman Law they could be punished by death. This meant either the traditional execution (crucifixion), burning at the stake, or being fed to the lions in one of the public spectacles. There is no record of how many counterfeiters actually met these fates.

FORREST AND TESSIE MICHAEL AWARD

This award is presented each year to the outstanding numismatic volunteer in the state of North Carolina. The Iredell Statesville Coin Club sponsors the Forrest and Tessie Michael Award to that individual who has made significant contribution to numismatics in North Carolina through volunteering their time and talents in the previous year or years. The following criteria need to be met in order for a person or persons to be eligible for nomination.

- a. Be a person or persons of outstanding character and integrity.
 1. This award can be given to an individual or individuals. For example: A club member, a couple such as husband and wife, coin dealer partners, a committee or any qualifying teams. Only one plaque will be awarded for multiple recipients.
- b. Be a member in good standing of either a local, state, or national coin organization
- c. Contribute to the advancement of numismatics through volunteering of time and talents, for example any combination of the following:
 1. Writing for local, state, regional, and/or national publications
 2. Presenting talks to local clubs and civic groups
 3. Exhibiting at shows and meetings
 4. Serving on committees, boards, holding office in clubs
 5. Encouraging and helping other collectors in their achieving their goals
 6. Working with Young Numismatists

In keeping with the spirit of Forrest and Tessie, the recipient of this award should have volunteered for the sheer joy of helping others.

The awardee does NOT have to be an NCNA member, But must be a Member to the local Club.

Please send nominations and supporting materials to: North Carolina Numismatic Association, Award Committee, P.O. Box 5864, Statesville, NC 28687 by September 15, 2012.

Please take time to discuss this with your Membership. We need your participation with these Awards and Recognition of your local Members.

Civil War tokens were issued during the crisis of the first 3 years of the American Civil War, when not enough small change was produced by the Mint to meet demand, in part due to hoarding. By 1864 the Mint had caught up to demand and these tokens disappeared. Like the Hard Times tokens before them, these pieces were issued with political and patriotic themes and advertising. There is one token that depicts the ironclad ship Monitor, the North's answer to the South's ironclad Merrimac (re-christened Virginia), which fought a famous naval battle off of Norfolk, Virginia that resulted in a standoff in 1863. The image on the right is that of a Civil War Token with the image of the ironclad ship Monitor.

HUMAN NATURE REPEATS ITSELF: HISTORY DOES NOT Part I

By Rodney Bobak.

Up and coming nations and leaders have repeatedly tried to link themselves to the symbols of past golden ages and regimes. Take the eagle, for instance. The legions of the Roman Republic all carried a Vexillum or personal standard; they would all die, to the last man, to protect that pole with an Eagle on top (Figure 1). The Emperor Constantine moved the capital from Rome to Byzantium (present-day Istanbul). Eastern Roman banners now sported two-headed eagles, facing east and west (Figure 2), to proclaim the Empire's new orientation. The old Rome collapsed in 476 AD, but the "New Rome" in the east lasted another 1000 years.

The last Byzantine Emperor, Constantine XI, consented to have his daughter, Zoe, marry the upstart, Russian King Ivan III, in the hopes that Orthodox Russia might return to the Pope's Catholic fold. That did not happen, but the rulers of Russia now claimed to be the heirs of Roman authority in the East and referred to their rulers as "Caesar", or Czar, in the Russian tongue.

HUMAN NATURE REPEATS ITSELF: HISTORY DOES NOT Part I (Continued)

Mikhail I, the first Romanov Czar, issued a gold Ruble (Figure 3), which depicted a simple double-headed eagle without ornamentation. Czarina Anna's Ruble coin enhanced said eagle with St. George's Coat-of-Arms (Figure 4), a regal chain of office, crowns upon both heads, an overall Imperial crown, talons holding an orb and a scepter and feathers. By the time of Russia's last Czar Nicholas II, the eagle had gained the coats-of-arms for eight principalities (Figure 5), which were scattered on its wings, more ornate feathers, a ribbon connecting all three crowns together and a tongue for each mouth.

Then came the 70+ years of Soviet rule, which replaced the ancient link to Rome with the simple Hammer and Sickle icon of the "Worker's Paradise" (Figure 6). The goals of imperial expansion were not discarded: they were merely cloaked in the rhetoric of liberating the enslaved workers of Capitalist Imperialism. When the socialist experiment died of bloated bureaucracy and a "command" economy and the Soviet Flag came down for the last time on Christmas night 1991, a new Russian Republic arose from the ashes with "wait for it" a double-headed eagle with well-regimented lines of feathers, but no trappings of Imperial majesty (Figure 7).

HUMAN NATURE REPEATS ITSELF: HISTORY DOES NOT Part I (Continued)

This rather bland eagle, “flapped” along for 20 years until coins, commemorating Russia’s hosting of the Winter Olympics in 2014, were issued (Figure 8). Vladimir Lenin would be turning in his grave, if the Communists believed in life after death! Most of the Imperial decorations have been returned to the Eagle: we again have three crowns, a scepter, an orb, fancy feathers and good old St. George in the middle. All we need is the principality Arms, the regal chain and a Czar. Have you noticed that Vladimir Putin, former KGB Leader, two-time President of the Russian Republic and political strongman, is running again for the office of president? Can you say “Czar Vladimir I”? Hmmmmmmmmmm. Like I said earlier, History doesn’t repeat itself

Part 2 of this Article “Human Nature Repeats Itself” will be in the Sep issue of the NCNA Journal.

CUSTOMER / PHONE CALL OF THE WEEK

By Tony Swicer

1. We had a lady come in with proof and mint sets. We offered her $750. She left. A couple of days later, she calls and says that another dealer in the Harvey building offered her $150. She calls him back and tells him what we offered. He says, “how can that be? They must have told you that for insurance purposes”. I told her to bring in the sets and I will pay her $750. She finally did. The other guy had offered her $1.50 each for $2 bills, telling her that they were not spendable.
2. A lady calls, “Do you pay a premium over Red Book?”.
3. A guy comes in and wants to buy a gold bezel to put a penny in.
4. This couple asks me how much an 1800 silver dollar is worth. I tell them $300-$1000, I have to see it. They say, “Oh we would never sell it for that”, as they proceed to show me a 1886 polished Morgan dollar.

5. A guy calls and asks, "You offered me $28 for a coin 5 years ago, what is it worth now?". I said what is it? He says a 1967 Kennedy half dollar. I said 60 cents.
6. A customer says, "it's easier to buy a loaf of bread with a 1/10 oz or 1/4 oz gold coin than a 1 oz gold". Ray says, "I just use a dollar bill".
7. A guy comes in, he just purchased 20, 20 franc gold coins out of the Wall Street Journal for $102 each. We offered him the same thing for $69.

Usually, when a King dies, his son gets the crown. (But not always).

Phillip the Fifth of Spain had gotten tired of kinging. He'd been in charge for 24 years, and had had nothing but War and Money problems for the whole time. He quit, giving the job to his son Louis.
